The challenge of leadership

Leaders and managers face complex challenges that require new ways of thinking and acting. Whether you are a business, not for profit organisation, central or local government agency, or an education provider, you will be focused on improving frontline services, increasing productivity, being innovative and engaging your stakeholders in long term mutually beneficial relationships. Doing more with less by being smarter and growing shareholder or stakeholder value is challenging.

The right people, engaged and doing the right thing is your key asset in lifting performance.

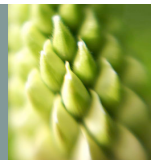

“As a leader I was continually confronted with challenging situations. I found it invaluable to have someone I trusted from outside of the organisation to reflect with and to be challenged by.”

“Your energy, creativity and insight made the difference. We were able to have the conversations we needed to have and talk about the things we had been avoiding.”

“The managers’ meeting you facilitated was one of the best I have attended. It really moved us along in our thinking.”

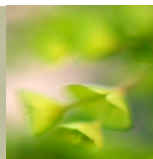

Advice, tools and training to build capability for the future.

Making a difference

- ⇒ Gain an edge. The Strategic Edge method uses futures thinking and strategic planning tools to help you put in place practical strategies that will give you a strategic edge organisationally and personally
- ⇒ Engage with your stakeholders. Practical approaches to engage stakeholders, generate mutual benefits and establish enduring relationships
- ⇒ Build workforce capability. An evidence based approach to producing a workforce strategy that will lift your organisations performance
- ⇒ Learn from peers. Introduce Peer Facilitated Learning as a cost effective approach to professional development and organisational learning.
- ⇒ Performance matters. Training aligned to need.
